Tell us a bit about yourself and your interests in foreign affairs:

Many of our speakers come as recommendations from our membership. Let us know of possible speakers you would like to see invited and the topics they would address. Also indicate if you have a personal connection that might facilitate the invite.

Authors of recent books and articles are often eager to accept speaking invitations. If you've come across a recent work on international relations or diplomacy that you have found insightful let us know title, author's name, and publisher.
